

ENTREPRENEURIAL MANAGEMENT

By completing 9 credit hours of entrepreneurship coursework and receiving approval, students can earn an entrepreneurial management designation, a credential that signifies they have the skills to add value to innovative, early stage ventures.

As a student in the entrepreneurial management program, students will choose from courses in entrepreneurial finance, management and other related areas while having the opportunity to connect with successful entrepreneurs through Tulane's respected Albert LePage Center for Entrepreneurship and Innovation. With a specialization in entrepreneurship, students will acquire a unique skillset that will help them stand out from the crowd when they embark upon their career.
