

GREEK MINOR

---

The acquisition of ancient Greek provides first-hand access to the texts of the ancient Mediterranean world and the early medieval period. In addition, the study of this ancient language provides excellent training in logical analysis and a superior understanding of how languages function to convey meaning.

For more information about the Department of Classical Studies (<https://liberalarts.tulane.edu/departments/classical-studies/>) please visit our website.

Requirements

Greek (GREK) Minors need 15 credits in CLAS, GREK, and/or LATN courses.

- at least 9 credits in GREK must be at or above the 3000 level
- at least 3 credits of those must be at the 4000 level

Language Requirement: Greek or Latin courses may be used to satisfy the Newcomb-Tulane College foreign language requirement. However, any courses used to satisfy the language requirement cannot also be counted toward the major or minor.