

GERMAN STUDIES MINOR

German Studies provides students with a wide range of opportunities to explore culture, literature, and language of the German-speaking countries. Such studies may fulfill the language requirement, serve as part of the general education, or lead to an in-depth course of study as a German Studies major, double major, or minor. The study of German prepares students for academic careers in fields such as history, art history, religion, philosophy, political science, literature, and music as well as for professional careers that emphasize the international aspects of business, law, economics, finance, government, science, engineering, and education.

Requirements

The minor in German Studies consists of five courses above GERM 2030 Intermediate German (4 c.h.).

Course ID	Title	Credits
GERM 3050	Advanced Grammar & Composition	3
Select one 4000-level course		3
Select the remaining three courses from advanced language, literature, or culture courses in consultation with the designated departmental advisor		9
Total Credit Hours		15

One course taught in the department in English at the 3000-level is allowed (providing there is a significant reading and writing requirement in German).

Field of Study: GERM

Contact

For more information, contact the School of Liberal Arts (<https://liberalarts.tulane.edu/comparative-literature/about/contact-us/>).