GENDER AND SEXUALITY STUDIES

Programs
Undergraduate
Major
• Gender and Sexuality Studies Major (https://catalog.tulane.edu/liberal-arts/interdisciplinary-programs-coordinate-majors/gender-sexuality-studies/gender-sexuality-studies-major)

Minor

Courses
Gender and Sexuality Studies (GESS)

GESS 1900 Sex, Power and Culture (3 Credit Hours)
This course invites students to learn the skills necessary to identify, analyze, and ultimately transform the cultural, social, and political forces that shape and are shaped by sex and sexuality. Approaching sexuality as a system of norms, values, beliefs, and patterns of interaction, students will learn how sexuality intersects with gender, race, age, ethnicity, religion, ability, and other axes of power and privilege. Students will be introduced to the current body of empirical data and theory to identify how these intersecting systems of power take shape in patterns of human interaction such as forming relationships, dating rituals and sexual scripts, and interpersonal conflict and violence. In sum, students will develop the skills to 1) analyze how their own interpersonal and intimate relationships are embedded within and constitutive of broader systems of power and 2) how to work individually and collectively to change them.

GESS 2190 Special Topics (3 Credit Hours)
Covers topics pertaining to the study of gender and/or sexuality

GESS 2900 Intro to Gender & Sex Studies (3 Credit Hours)
This course is an interdisciplinary introduction to gender and sexuality studies. Its primary focus is critical perspectives on the social construction of gender and sexuality, inequalities on the basis of gender and sexuality, activism around issues of gender and sexuality, and how gender and sexuality shape and are shaped by other systems of inequality such as race, ethnicity, class, religion, nation, region, and age.

GESS 3500 ID, Difference & Inequality (3 Credit Hours)
This course invites students to learn the skills necessary to identify, analyze, and ultimately transform the cultural, social, and political forces that shape and are shaped by sex and sexuality. Approaching sexuality as a system of norms, values, beliefs, and patterns of interaction, students will learn how sexuality intersects with gender, race, age, ethnicity, religion, ability, and other axes of power and privilege. Students will be introduced to the current body of empirical data and theory to identify how these intersecting systems of power take shape in patterns of human interaction such as forming relationships, dating rituals and sexual scripts, and interpersonal conflict and violence. In sum, students will develop the skills to 1) analyze how their own interpersonal and intimate relationships are embedded within and constitutive of broader systems of power and 2) how to work individually and collectively to change them.

Prerequisite(s): GESS 2900.

GESS 3890 Service Learning: GESS 3500 (0-1 Credit Hours)
Students complete a service activity in the community in conjunction with the content of a three-credit core course.

GESS 4500 Gender and Archives (3 Credit Hours)
This course focuses on developing knowledge of major theories of archives, on fostering research skills by engaging with materials, and on involving students in archival work that will allow questions about gender. Exploring theories and practices of archives, the course takes students through the history of archives, with special attention to women as keeping, and represented in, scholarly collections.

Prerequisite(s): GESS 2900.

GESS 4560 Internship (1-3 Credit Hours)
"This course focuses on developing knowledge of major theories of archives, on fostering research skills by engaging with materials, and on involving students in archival work that will allow questions about gender. Exploring theories and practices of archives, the course takes students through the history of archives, with special attention to women as keeping, and represented in, scholarly collections. Notes: The course offers a service learning project. Pre-requisites: GESS 2900 and GESS 3500."
GESS 4700  Sexuality in US History (3 Credit Hours)
In this course we will examine the ways in which sex, gender and sexuality have been fundamentally reorganized since the 18th century. Focusing primarily on the formation and development of the United States, this seminar aims to deepen your understanding of the distinctive constructions of sexuality in various historical, political, and cultural contexts, how those constructions have transformed over time, and what factors account for those changes. All of our critical inquiries will attend to the ways in which race, class, gender, religion, market cultures, and governments intersect with the history of sexuality.

GESS 4881  Writing Intensive: GESS 4980  (1 Credit Hour)
Writing Intensive.

GESS 4890  Service Learning: GESS 4700  (1 Credit Hour)
Service Learning.

GESS 4910  Independent Study (1-3 Credit Hours)
Qualified students may arrange for independent study with an instructor to pursue a project of interest to the student. Ordinarily, independent study earns three credits. Requirements will vary depending on the project but will involve some combination of readings, oral reports, and written work. A maximum of four credits of independent studies may be applied toward the major in Gender and Sexuality Studies and three credits toward the minor.

GESS 4920  Independent Study (1-3 Credit Hours)
Qualified students may arrange for independent study with an instructor to pursue a project of interest to the student. Ordinarily, independent study earns three credits. Requirements will vary depending on the project but will involve some combination of readings, oral reports, and written work. A maximum of four credits of independent studies may be applied toward the major in Gender and Sexuality Studies and three credits toward the minor.

GESS 4930  Special Topics (3 Credit Hours)
An in-depth examination of a particular topic relevant to gender and sexuality studies. Topics for discussion focus on a theme or question that is best understood within an interdisciplinary framework.

GESS 4931  Special Topics Gender Studies (3 Credit Hours)

GESS 4940  Gender & Sexuality Theory I (3 Credit Hours)
This course is the first in a sequence of two courses (see GESS 4/6950) on feminist and queer theory. The primary goals of this course are 1) to provide an introduction to early feminist theories of patriarchy, women’s oppression, and gender inequality, 2) map the emergence of subsequent theories of the social construction of gender and gender difference including the sources, causes, and effects of gender inequality and strategies for reducing or eradicating inequality, and 3) identify how intersectional, postmodern, and queer thinkers enter into dialogue with and critique early feminist theorizing.

Prerequisite(s): GESS 3500 or 3500.

GESS 4950  Gender & Sexuality Theory II (3 Credit Hours)
This course is the second in a sequence of two courses on feminist and queer theory. The primary goals of this course are 1) to map the expansion of feminist and queer theory in recent decades, 2) critically engage with theories of gender, sexuality, race, and class to gain understanding of inequality and social change.

Prerequisite(s): GESS 4940 or 4940.

* May be taken concurrently.

GESS 4990  Honors Thesis (3 Credit Hours)
Honors Thesis.

GESS 5000  Honors Thesis (4 Credit Hours)
Honors Thesis.

GESS 6940  Gender & Sexuality Theory I (3 Credit Hours)
This course is an advanced seminar in feminist and gender theory. The primary focus is critical engagement with social, political, and cultural theories of the social construction of gender and gender difference, and of the sources, causes, and effects of gender inequality and strategies for reducing or eradicating inequality. While emphasis will be placed on gender difference and inequality, substantial time will be spent on theories of how gender is implicated in and supported by other forms of inequality such as sexuality, race, ethnicity, and class.

GESS 6950  Adv Sexuality & Queer Theory II (3 Credit Hours)
This course is the second in a sequence of two courses on feminist and queer theory. The primary goals of this course are 1) to map the expansion of feminist and queer theory in recent decades, 2) critically engage with theories of gender, sexuality, race, and class to gain understanding of inequality and social change.

Prerequisite(s): GESS 6940 or 6940.